PROFILE

A full-stack developer and designer with experience in designing user-friendly and accessible applications while adhering to design principles using tools like Figma and others and implementing my designs using different languages, tools, libraries, and frameworks depending on the type of project I'm building. I mostly specialize in JavaScript libraries and frameworks but also have experience using languages like Python and PHP including their frameworks. I wish to leverage additional knowledge and skills by working on world-changing applications that could be useful and accessible to others.
